

Reflexions from the Children's Garden group before leaving Sweden.

Mariam Prutentia

I feel Sweden is a good country that has almost everything you want. I feel that I have met with many friends that made me to feel safe and to feel at home. I think and wish to always resident in Sweden. Today has been the hardest of my life that I should leave. It's hard because they are some friends that I have not yet said goodbye to them.

The best experience I have had is that people really accepted us and made us feel free and good & well welcomed... I have never been on the boat before but I experience in Sweden & it was a wonderful trip that you really experience the beauty of nature, & I met my best from on the boat & I think it was a journey that I will never forget. Everything was cool in Sweden & we also had to experience how they feel when it's cold. It was cold but a experience that we will never forget. At first we only knew few people & it was hard for us but now when we mingled with them and knew each other everything was good. The Swedish food is not good when you are not used to them but when you eat after a few days you are used and it become sweet & sweeter.

When I go back to Kenya I will tell them all the feelings & experiences that I have had in Sweden and I think they would like to come to Sweden too. The worst thing is that when you are in Sweden time goes very first and I think I did not like it.

The performance was nervous at first but when we did it the second time I felt that it was usual now. We went to different places that we saw different eyes of persons we had to perform to them even if we did not know them everything were good after performance.

We went for ice-skating I feel down several times & then I became good although skating was terrible for me and I decided to do something else. These were the most moments that needed a lot of concentrations a lot.

I am very happy because of Sweden. To me I feel like Sweden is a very good place. It's a beautiful country and also enjoyable. I have experienced good things. I have known how to skate. I am sad because when I will leave Sweden I will miss many things.

I will miss the people who have been hosting me. I'll miss the Swedish food. I'll just miss many things. But it's been grateful to be here. The performance that we had, I felt it was good and touchable. Many people like the play. "Our life"

Being in Sweden has taught me a lot and made me, know different things. It has made me be strong and happy that is all about the most important thing in my life and will always stay, alive and will never be gone from my memory.

I will miss my new friends who I just met here and playing football at night with them, also had a chance to learn how to play the computer for the first time in my life.

Acting the most important thing that I did that would like many people to see and learn about Kenya and not only Kenya but the all of Africa. I would like the whole world to come together as one because soon the world will be like a village.

Taking all the visit o the museum and having chance to see different types of animals and see a boat which was built about three hundred years ago. Watching a movie in moving chairs that was interesting part and funny to me.

I hope that my tour in Slovakia will be full of memory and happiness too. The most important thing is that the message that we brought I hope people got it right in their memory. I hope I had the chance to travel all over the world and back here some days in the future. Lucy Nyangweso Mwangi.

My name is Joseph Njuroge. I'm a teacher in Children's Garden. I like having fun. It was for me being in Sweden. It is quite different from Kenya. It's always cold, not so much populated like Kenya and has a different traffic system. They always keep right while driving. As a extracumular activity teacher. I had a lot of challenges across me. These include time keeping, standard and different types of games like skating and iceskating. It was really fun. I visited a numbers of theatres and music stations and realized that they were well equipped and organized that we are. I met different kind of people. Swedish people are very kind and caring. They are always busy on weekday and a lots of fun on weekends. They like watching drama and dances from Kenya but they hardly dance. Our drama, dancing and singing presentation seemed to be so strange at the first day but after few days we became used to the stage then it was just okey like in Kenya. I will talk of the hospitality, politeness and time consciousness in schools, street and organizations. They have a lot to learn and a lot to give. I think exchange programme is very important between Sweden and Kenya. I will always admire to come back to Sweden.

Being in a play on stage is different enough for me: being in a play in Sweden takes it to another level. I was in Sweden before in 2003 but I didn't spend much time in Stockholm. I expected it to be a quiet lonely place with everyone involved in their own business. I've been pleasantly surprised! The experience was much like a Kenyan meeting old friends.

Performing the play at different schools and at the theatre at Farsta was terribly hard work, especially when we had three performances back to back. It felt like we were a rock band on tour. I must admit that Swedes get a bad rep. They know how to have fun, once you get to know them.

It was nice to meet all the people who were interested to know more about Children's Garden and to let them know how they could help. It was also nice to meet the young people who wanted to visit Children's Garden as soon as they could.

The worst part about the Globetree meeting is when they end. Maybe we should put restrictions on how much fun we have so that the goodbyes are not that painful. Something like a day that we kick each other instead of hugging – that should guarantee less tears when we leave.

I actually found Swedish food that I like- messmo. potato salad and the big portions of chicken. If I get to fat to attract women I'm blaming you, Marta.

I'll miss the boat-ride from Nämdö to Stockholm. I'll miss the freezing weather. I'll miss walking around Stockholm, I'll miss using the Tunnelbana. I'll miss Amanda!

First of all is to give my thanks for Globetree and the Swedish inviting us Children's Garden to Sweden. This shows love and care. My feelings are.

*Swedish are living people

*The Swedish Comperates

*The Swedish have respect to visitors

*The Swedish really appreciate being with the visitors

*I felt much love by Marta in her home and she have even smiled as a mother to her children.

I was very much impressed by the Country infrastructure and its administrations, no visible pollution and I felt challenged to do the same back home.

I was also impressed by the Swedish accepted the drama, which made my children felt accepted and listened to.

I was also impressed of meeting different people from Different countries and had healthful exchange from our countries, I was a good Experience.

It was also a good Experience and listen to children from Sweden and Kenya, it reminded me to be nearer to children and to be ready to listen to them. I was also challenged from the questioned they asked which I'm carrying back home in world home.

Thanks very much

Globetree, Live long!!
